CHAPTER 1

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

Reading is a skill that must be mastered by students in learning English as a foreign language. Reading allows seeing or reading what is written and understanding the contents of the reading; Therefore, reading can add knowledge and information to the text. Some reading components are suggested by experts, such as understanding the main idea, supporting ideas, vocabulary, and grammar, which makes the teachers must be careful in applying methods in teaching English, especially reading.¹

The main objective of English instruction in lower and upper secondary schools is to develop reading skills, and students who graduate from secondary school must be competent in reading. The teachers need to improve the students' mastery of English. Reading is an activity to get information about something. Reading is a way of getting meaning or knowledge from printed pages such as textbooks, newspapers, magazines, and novels. From the text we have read, We can get a sense of the knowledge we need. We try to understand the importance that the writer writes in his book. Not only from the educational book we get knowledge not but also from the newspaper. For example, we can get important information useful for our lives because of a content announcement about a job, good occasional, etc. From the statement above, it is concluded that reading is getting meaning from written text. Reading is also connected between the writer and reader. The writer explains the idea and knowledge while the reader accepts the purpose and the information.

Reading skills is an information searching activity through written signs and understanding the explicit and implicit ideas in a text that involves cooperation among several components. Reading skills is an information searching activity through written signs and understanding the explicit and implicit ideas in a text that involves cooperation among several components.²

Reading text is very important to support the teaching-learning process, especially in reading class. Reading skills enable students to turn writing into meaning and achieve the goals of independence, comprehension, and fluency. Reading skills are specific abilities that will allow a reader to read the written form as expressive language, anything written with autonomy, understanding, and fluency, and mentally interact with the message. Reading questions establish a basis for identifying and clarifying meaning and purpose. That influences the method of reading, degree of skills, reading rate, and the skill employed. The questions about reading skills lead to new knowledge and skill and help quell the controversy, promoting helpful discussion.

In teaching reading skills, a teacher should introduce other material as an alternative to give a situation to students in classroom reading skills. These materials can be in the form of media that can create a comfortable atmosphere to interest and stimulate the students' motivation during the classroom learning process. On the other hand, the students are trained; this highest motivation is needed to learn reading besides having an effective reading habit.

National Library of Indonesia has surveyed literature social facts regarding reading skills in 2015 with publications of a survey entitled "Results of the Study of Indonesian Community Reading Culture." A survey concluded that most of the respondents (65%) fill their spare time doing activities other than reading, while reading activities are only done by another 35% of respondents. Dominant activities other than reading what is done are watching TV (as many as 21% of respondents) and playing activities games or social media via smartphones, tablets, and computers (21% of respondents). Respondents surveyed generally do reading activities an average of only 2 to 4 times a week with a reading time of fewer than 2 hours per day (included in the low category). Low activity reading can also be seen from the average just complete reading 0-100 pages in a week. Interest and the ability to buy books are also common, as seen from the average respondents. They generally allocate funds to buy a book in a year from Rp. 0 to Rp.100 thousand and Rp.101 thousand to Rp.200 thousand are included in the low category. The book collection is also relatively small. The majority of respondents only have a collection of books between 0 to 20 books.³

Based on the results pre-observation, the student in the second grade of MAN Palopo faced problems with reading skills. Students could not do well in understanding the reading text, and their lack of knowledge related to vocabulary mastery. The teacher has applied a method to solve the problem by asking students to look up words not understood in the dictionary. But it is still an unsatisfactory result, which means that the student school needs another treatment to improve their reading ability. So, the researcher think that it is essential to explore more about the teaching strategies used in teaching reading skills.

The statement from the previous study is interesting to be used as a reference for the object of this study in this study; it is about the teacher's strategy in teaching reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo; and to determine the extent students to which the ability on reading skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo; so that it is possible to find social factors that occur in the field regarding the efficiency of teacher's teaching strategies on the students reading learning process. Amid the rapid development of science and technology, it requires a teacher to see the capacity of students' thinking, be more sensitive to students' knowledge needs, and be extra to convey insights in terms of reading skills.

B. Problem Statement

Based on the background, the researcher composes the problem statement as follows:

1. What are the teacher's strategies in teaching reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo?
2. How is the ability on reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo?

C. The objective of the Research

Concerning the problems statements, the objective of this study is to analyze teachers' strategies in teaching reading skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo and determine the extent to which students can to read skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo.

D. Significance of the Research

The result of this the study is expected to give advantages, which are :

1. Theoretically

a. For the teachers

This study gives references to teaching strategies for the teachers in teaching English during the learning process

b. For the students

This study presents the proper teaching strategies based on students' ability to learn English

c. For the researcher

This study provides a study about teachers' strategies that can be a reference for further study

2. Practically

a. For the teachers

This research is supposed to help the teachers find a suitable strategy for teaching English

b. For the students

This study presents a new strategy for learning English and makes the students interested in the learning process that is easy to understand.

c. For the researcher

This study takes a new teaching strategy for future

E. Definition of Key Terms

1. Teaching Strategies

Teaching Strategies are a general pattern of teaching and learning activities to realize an effective learning process and a method or step designed by a teacher to manage and implement the teaching and learning process to achieve the goals set.

2. Reading Skills

Reading skills are skills to get the message conveyed by the author and the ability to process the text and understand the text conveyed.

F. Scope of the Research

Based on this research, the scope of this study is focused on analyzing on teacher's strategy in teaching skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo; The reading skills consist of Scanning skills, Skimming skills, and to determine the extent students to which the ability on reading skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo.

G. Purpose of the Research

This study aims to determine the teacher's strategy in teaching reading skills at second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo and determine the extent to which students have the ability on reading skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo.

CHAPTER II

LITERATURE OF REVIEW

A. Previous Studies

The Purpose of previous research is a source of inspiration to assist in implementing research. Previous research is a source of past research results, which researcher would attempt to compare the research carried out. In addition, the researcher can also examine the advantages and disadvantages of research. So, the researcher can also make an original/new research because they know which ones; have been discovered and which ones have not. There is some previous research that is relevant to this research :

1. Intan Rani Aritonang, Sandi Lasmana, Deti Kurnia, The Analysis of Skimming and Scanning Technique to Improve Students in Teaching Reading Skills

This research deals with “The Analysis of the Skimming and Scanning Technique to Improve Students Teaching Reading Skills”, The present study is qualitative; the data gained be analyzed in descriptive ways to explore their attitudes, behavior, and experience. This research explores the implementation of this research objective to determine the effectiveness of the skimming and scanning strategy in improving students reading skills; the data collection technique focuses on participant observation, interviews, and documentation. The result of this research is observation with an English teacher of SMK Kharisma Nusantara to determine the reading skills students' achievement and analyze before using Skimming and scanning teaching. As a result, we found that the student of SMK Kharisma Nusantara still lacks comprehension of what they read.⁴

The difference between this study and previous research is that previous research discussed the Analysis of Skimming and Scanning Techniques to Improve Students' Reading Skills and the research location in vocational high schools. In contrast, this study analyzed the teacher's strategies in teaching scanning skills and skimming skills and to determine the extent to which students' ability to understand the method of scanning skills and skimming skills that are applied by teachers in learning while the location of this research is in senior high school.

2. Fitri Susanty, Peningkatan Kemampuan Membaca Dan Memahami Teks Bahasa Inggris Melalui Teknik Skimming-Scanning Pada Mahasiswa Sekolah Tinggi Ilmu Tarbiyah Raudhatul Ulum Sakatiga Semester II 2017/2018.

“Improving the Ability to Read and Understand English Texts Through Skimming-Scanning Techniques for Second Semester Students at the Tarbiyah College of Sciences Raudhatul Ulum”, This study aims to analyze and find English learning plans using skimming-scanning techniques, find and analyze the process of implementing English language learning using skimming-scanning techniques, find and analyze appropriate evaluations of English learning using skimming-scanning techniques, find and analyze the improvement of reading and understanding English text using the skimming-scanning technique. This research is a classroom action research that consists of 2 cycles. I did the usual technique and did cycle II by skimming scanning technique. They collected the data through observation and tests. The conclusions of this study were: finding and analyzing English learning plans using the skimming–scanning method. Cycle I explained learning activities. The average value produced is 6.5 or categorized as quite good. Cycle 2 learning activities in socializing skimming scanning reading techniques to improve reading comprehension the average score reaches 8.5 categories 2) improves reading and understanding skills in the first cycle which completes 12 or 50% of students and the average value is 6.5, the cycle both 24 students completed or 100% the average value was 8.5.⁵

The difference between this research and previous research is that previous research used the classroom action research method to achieve its research objectives, namely to analyze and find plans, processes, and evaluations in improving the ability to read and understand English texts using skimming-scanning techniques, the researcher acts directly as a teacher in a lesson, and the object of previous research is located in the lecture. In contrast, this research uses a qualitative method to formulate the problem to be studied. What are the teacher's strategies in teaching reading skills, and How is the ability on reading skills consist of scanning skills and skimming skills? This research involves teachers as informants in the interview process and involves students as subjects to provide questions about scanning and skimming after the learning process; the object of this research is at the senior high school.

3. M. Zaini Miftah, Implementation of Intensive Reading Strategy to Improve Reading Skills

The research aims to develop the “Intensive Reading Strategy to improve the students’ reading skills”, The research employed Collaborative Classroom Action Research; the study subject was 32 students in the second semester of the English Education Study Program of STAIN Palangka Raya in the 2010/2011 academic year. The data was gained from reading skills tests, observation, field notes, and questionnaires. The findings show that the implementation of Intensive reading skills with the appropriate procedures developed can improve the students’ reading skills. It is indicated the improvement of the percentage of the students achieving a score greater than or equal to C (60-69) and the rate of their involvement in the reading activities during the implementation of Intensive reading skills in Cycles I and II. Consequently, the improvement of the students’ reading skills can be achieved, but it should follow the appropriate procedures for implementing Intensive Reading Skills.⁶

The difference between previous research and this research is that this study uses the Classroom Action Research method to develop strategies for Intensive Reading skills to improve students' reading skills. In contrast, this study uses qualitative methods to describe the teacher's strategies in teaching scanning and skimming skills and determine the extent of students' abilities. Understand the narrative text material taught by a teacher using scanning skills and skimming skills methods.

4. M. Qismullah Yusuf, Yunisrina Qismullah Yusuf, and Burhansyah Yusuf, Skimming and scanning techniques to assist EFL students in understanding English reading texts.

The research aimed to determine whether the “Skimming and scanning techniques can improve EFL students' English reading comprehension in recounting texts”, especially in identifying the main ideas and detailed information, in a senior high school in Meulaboh, Aceh Indonesia. Some 32 eleventh grade students participated in this study, and one group of pre-test and post-test designs were used. Data collection was from a pre-test and a post-test. In analyzing the data, statistics were used. The results showed that the mean score of the pre-test was 45 and the post-test was 65, with 20 points of improvement. Furthermore, the result of the t-test was 4.7, while the critical value of 0.05 significant level was 2.4, with the degree of freedom at 23. Since $t\text{-test} > t\text{-score}$, thus Scanning skimming technique improved the students' reading comprehension in this study. Nevertheless, the paper further discusses some setbacks while implementing the scanning skimming technique in the classroom.⁷

The difference between previous studies and this research is that previous research focused on whether skimming and scanning techniques could improve EFL students' English reading comprehension in recount texts. The data collection process was carried out through the pre-test and post-test stages. The teacher's strategy in teaching scanning skills and skimming skills and determining the extent to which students' abilities understand the scanning skills and skimming skills method applied in the learning process. In contrast, the data collection process in this research includes observation, interviews, and documentation study.

5. Sherly Marliasari, Teaching reading comprehension by skimming and scanning techniques to the tenth-grade students of SMAN 1 Gelumbang.

The research was to determine whether or not it was effective to “Teach skimming and scanning techniques in reading a narrative text by the tenth-grade students of SMAN 1 Gelumbang”, The method was used experimentally. The population of this study was all tenth-grade students of SMAN 1 Gelumbang. The sample of this study was 60 students. It indicated that the null hypothesis (Ho) was rejected, and the alternative hypothesis (Ha) was accepted. It could be concluded that it was effective to teach reading comprehension by using skimming and scanning techniques to the tenth-grade students of SMAN 1 Gelumbang.⁸

The difference between previous research and this research is that previous research focuses on knowing whether or not the teaching of skimming and scanning techniques is effective in reading narrative texts by students using experimental research methods. In contrast, this study uses descriptive qualitative methods to determine students' understanding of the scanning and skimming skills methods.

B. Literature Review

1. Teacher's Strategies in Reading

a. Definition of teaching strategy

The researcher stated that teaching strategy is how teachers will use to choose learning activities that will be used in the learning process.⁹ Researchers state that teaching strategy is a teacher's way in the teaching and learning process to achieve a purpose that has been planned.¹⁰

Strategy is an effort to gain success and success in achieving goals. In education, strategy can be defined as a plan, method, or series of activities designed to achieve a particular educational goal. Teaching strategies can be interpreted as planning that contains a series of exercises designed to achieve specific academic goals. The learning strategy is an action plan (activity plan) including the use of methods and the utilization of various resources or strengths in learning that is structured to achieve specific learning objectives.¹¹

The teaching strategy includes plans, methods, learning techniques, and activities to achieve specific teaching goals. A set of teaching methods is needed; Strategy can be interpreted as a plan of operation to achieve something.

Learning strategies are chosen to deliver the subject matter in a particular teaching environment, including the nature, scope, and sequence of activities that can provide a learning experience for students. The learning strategy consists of techniques (procedures) and methods that will lead students to achieve objectives.¹²

b. Purpose in teaching strategies

Implementing strategies in teaching reading skills can affect the effectiveness and create a conducive teaching and learning atmosphere; varied approaches can change student saturation so that students are more enthusiastic during the teaching and learning process. Besides that, the specific purpose of teaching reading skills dramatically affects the process and results of reading activities. Reading strategies can also help readers understand the content of the reading.

c. Kinds of Teaching strategies in Teaching English

In teaching reading skills, the teacher needs some strategies to make the students comprehend the reading texts; The following are strategies that can apply to the teaching reading comprehension in the classroom:

1. Questioning

Questioning is a question that contains questions made according to the text that students read. The use of questions in teaching has a significant effect on the development and assessment of students' understanding strategies. The focus of direct influencing questions is that when your instructional activities use good questions and self-questioning models, you help your students develop effective independent understanding. States that reading does not only consist of reading the page passively. There are reading stages included in the Strategy proposed.¹³

2. Prediction

Prediction is a strategy that activates background reading, viewing or previewing, and viewing or summarizing knowledge. This Strategy assumes moving away from what the reader already knows with what is expected to learn from the text. Prediction is a strategy to activate prior knowledge. Prediction creates anticipation and gets students to think about previous experiences they might have had about the subject before they read about it. It is a fact that good readers use prediction as they continue to read the story by seeking to confirm or adjust earlier intuitions on the subject. So, predicting is working both before and during reading.¹⁴

3. Visualizing

Visualizing is an activity to change the content of the text into the form of images in mind using knowledge and the five tools the senses possess to gain understanding. Visualizing Strategy can be defined as the effort made to obtain understanding by changing the content of the text into the form of images inside the mind using prior knowledge and experience. The five senses are the senses of sight, touch, hearing, kiss, and taste. Visualizing connecting senses and emotions with the ideas contained in the text and the reader's own experience and remembering what is read. The activity shows that visualizing indirect makes students participate by implicating themselves in the content of the reading, so that understanding will be easier to build.¹⁵

4. Outlining and Summarizing

This technique is about identifying the main ideas and restoring them in your own words. Outlining and summarizing are especially strategies that help the reader understand the content and structure of the text. Both are outlining and summarizing are the key to distinguishing between the main ideas and supporting ideas and the examples.

Outlining the main idea help reader discover the structure of the text. Whereas the summarizing begins with outlining but contains a list of the main idea of the text, which uses the readers' words to summarize.¹⁶

The summary includes only important elements and retains the order of the original information. The characteristic of summarization are :

1. A summary should be shorter than the original text.
2. A summary should include the main ideas of the text.
3. A summary should reflect the structure and order of the original text.
4. A summary should include important details.

5. Using prior knowledge/Previewing

This technique is about learning the text before really reading it. In this term, the readers get a sense of what the text is about and how it is organized before it closely; the learners can see the heading or subheading on the text or other introductory text.¹⁷

6. Comparing and contrasting related reading.

Comparing and contrasting related reading is about exploring likeness and differences between texts to understand them better. Many writers have the same material, including the same issues or questions, but the discussion uses a different approach. The reader should fit a text into an ongoing debate of the text to increase their understanding of why the writer has different ways.¹⁸

7. Making inferences

Making inferences has been defined as the ability to construct the textbase and the mental models that go beyond the information directly articulated in the text, so the researcher concludes that the inference strategy is one of the reading strategies in which the reader uses knowledge and facts from the text and from earlier experiences or their prior knowledge as base or premises for them to make their own logical conclusion.¹⁹

2. Reading skills

a. Definition of reading skills

Reading skills are more focused on understanding reading skills because the ability to understand reading material (text) is the main goal to be achieved in learning to read. Every program learning is carried out using certain strategies. One strategy that is meant is related to learning methods.²⁰

Reading is defined as understanding written texts. Andi asrifan say that reading consists of two related processes: word recognition and comprehension. Word recognition is the process of getting how written symbols correspond to one's spoken language, while comprehension is the process of making the meaning of words, sentences, and connected text. The researcher adds his statement that the reader who has background knowledge, vocabulary, grammatical knowledge, experience with text, and other strategies can help them understand written texts.²¹

Reading is an exercise dominated by the eyes and the brain. The eyes receive the message, and the brain then has to work out the significance.²²

Reading is an essential skill in learning besides listening, writing, and speaking skills. Reading deals with people's ability to articulate a written text and understand its meaning. Because the teacher would catch the idea through adjustment of their language and though reading does not simply spell the word in a sentence. Moreover, the reader can comprehend the whole ideas conveyed through written text. Reading is not easy since the reader does not know how to read effectively. Reading who knows many vocabularies certainly would facilitate comprehending and interpreting the author's idea.

In Oxford, the learner's pocket dictionary explains that reading is the act of reading something and how something is understood.²³ Reading is a process of thinking and getting some information about something from the book and knowing new information. Reading is one of some skills in English is very important to know because success we got information from the book is a success from a good reader.

Reading is a way to get information from something that has been written. Reading involves the introduction of symbols that make up a language. Reading and hearing is the second most common way to get information. Information from reading can include entertainment, especially when reading fiction or humor.

Reading is the same chronic process for most people; they start with the first word and plug along to the end.²⁴ Reading is one skill that is very important for us that be master in English, for taking the many information from the different pace such as magazines, books, newspapers, etc.

²³ Martin H. Manser, "Oxford Learner's Pocket Dictionary.", (New York: Oxford University Press, 2005), p 357.

²⁴ Rick ostrov's, "Power reading.", 2003, education press: www.educationpress.com, accessed December 15, 2021, p.24.

Reading is a process undertaken to reduce uncertainty about meanings a text conveys; the process results from the negotiation of the meanings between the text and its reader, and the knowledge, expectations, and strategies a reader uses to uncover textual meaning all play decisive roles way the reader negotiates with the text's meaning.²⁵

b. Kinds of reading skills

There are six kinds of reading skills: Intensive skill, Extensive skill, Reading Aloud skill, Silent Reading skill, Scanning skill, Skimming skill.

1. Intensive skill

Nation stated intensive reading might be a tool to enhance students' grasp of language elements, their mastery of reading methods, and their comprehension ability.²⁶ Intensive reading, also known as silent reading, is a classroom-based activity where learners concentrate on semantic or linguistic passage detail. Intensive reading can also refer to content-related reading that commences due to subject material adversity.²⁷

Intensive reading is a text or passage reading. In reading, learners read the text to get knowledge or analysis. Intensive reading is reading for recall or total accuracy. It is an activity in a class way of using reading. It deals with the detailed content study and linguistic study.

²⁷ Endang Sri Rahayu, "The use of Tri-Focus Steve and Intensive Reading Techniques to Teach Reading Comprehension.", (2018).

The goal of this reading is to read shorter text. This reading is done to carry out to get specific information. Intensive reading would provide fundamental structure difficulties and extend knowledge of vocabulary and idioms. It would also provide material for developing more significant control of the language of speech and writing.

2. Extensive skill

Extensive reading involves the rapid reading of large quantities of material or extended reading for general understanding, generally focusing on the meaning of what is being read rather than the language.²⁸

Extensive reading would train the students to read directly and the target language for enjoyment without the teacher's aid.

Extensive reading applies to the texts of more than a page, up to and including professional articles, essays, technical reports, short stories, and books. The purposes of assessment usually are to tap into a learner's global understanding of a text, as opposed to asking test-takers to "zoom in" on small details.²⁹

3. Reading Aloud skill

According to Researcher, reading means reading a book by making sounds audible to others. Reading aloud by the teacher can make the students listening skills an improvement. Reading aloud is useful only for certain moments.³⁰ ²⁸Jack Croft Richards and Willy A. Renandya. Methodology in language teaching: An anthology of current practice. New York: Cambridge university press, 2002. p.296.

²⁹H. Douglas Brown, "Language Assessment Principal and Classroom Practices.", (Longman: San Francisco State University) 2004, p. 189.

³⁰Elizabeth, "A. Thinking Outside Box: An Exercise in Heresy.", Qualitative Inquiry, 2004. p.286-288.

Reading aloud is also very important in teaching English. Teachers should know that reading aloud must give training at the primary level because it is the base of word pronunciation.

Reading aloud is a complex and complex skill; it is complicated because reading aloud requires understanding the characters on paper and producing precise and meaningful sounds.

The purpose of reading aloud skills is to improve speech, justify reading, express something well, and defines pronunciation correctly.

4. Silent Reading skill

Silent reading skills are essential in teaching English. This should employ this reading increase reading ability among learners. Silent reading is done to enquire a lot of information. The teacher has to make them read silently as and when they can read without any difficulties.

Silent reading requires the reader to find out the meaning of words or sentences and the ideas written in the text. The teacher asks the student to conclude during silent reading because, through silent reading, every student can pay attention to the next they are reading.

5. Scanning skill

Scanning is the technique you use to locate specific bits of information in texts. Usually, you already know what the text is about, and you know it contains the information you need. Scanning is a useful technique to employ both in education and in real life. Like skimming, it saves you time and makes locating specific facts easy.³¹

Scanning is a way to read the very past. The students do not read all the words; You need only the words; you need only the words you are looking for; the Scanning is scanning a text to locate a specific item of information. We have our eyes through the text until we find what we are looking for, whether it is a name or less detailed information. In addition, there is some procedure for Scanning; they keep in mind only the specific information to be located, read the section containing the clues to get the information needed, looking for topics.

6. Skimming skill

Skimming the text for the main ideas Skimming is one of the most valuable reading strategies for learners. Skimming consists of quickly running one's eyes across a whole text (such as an essay, article, or chapter) to find out what the text tells or the main idea. Skimming gives readers the advantage of being able to guess the purpose of the passage, the main topic or message, and possibly some of the developing or supporting ideas.³²

Skimming is a form of rapid reading for finding the general idea or gist of a passage or a book. Skimming is helpful when you want to find out quickly about the writer. Skimming is reading a text superficially and rapidly; you may have a lot to read but not too much time. You usually do not want to know and remember everything for this kind of reading. You only want to find out something about it.

Obtain the gist or main idea. It is a skill that requires concentration.

The three primary aims of skimming are to get an impression from a book or articles or short story, find specific cases from reading material, and look for the material we need in the library.

C. Conceptual Framework

The conceptual framework describes what the researcher meant to do to conduct this research systematically. This study aims to determine the teacher's strategy in teaching reading skills and determine the extent to which students can read skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo. The conceptual framework that underpins this research is depicted in the diagram below:

The diagram above shows that the first element refers to the Observation of the Teacher's strategy in teaching reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo. The second component refers to the Analyzing of Teacher's strategy in the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo. The third component and to determine the extent of the Student's ability on reading skills. The fourth component is the interview and documentation study; The final component is about conclusions. In this step, the researcher determines the Teacher's strategy in teaching reading skills and determines the extent to which students have the ability on reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo.

CHAPTER III

RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

A. Research Design

The research method is essential to do research. The researcher would apply the correct method; the researcher needs the research method and plays a significant role. This design would use descriptive qualitative research with the qualitative research methods used to analyze teaching strategies used by teachers in reading skills and determine the extent to which students have the ability on reading skills.

The descriptive qualitative method is called the interpretive method because the research results are related to interpreting data found in the field. The researcher stated that descriptive research does not aim to test a specific hypothesis but instead describes some variables and conditions naturally. So, the researcher described and explained anything related to this analysis.

The researcher would use an interview guide for a teacher as a data collection tool. This research would use a qualitative descriptive method with further explanations. In this chapter, the researcher explains the methodology of this research. Consists of a research approach, research type, unit of analysis, data sources, data collection methods, and technical data analysis.

B. Type of Research

The qualitative method is a study to describe and analyze phenomena, social activities, attitudes, beliefs, perceptions, and thoughts individually or in groups.

To determine the extent to which the ability on reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo. This research is a descriptive method with data collection through direct observation, interviews, and documentation studies. This study would discuss the teacher's strategy in teaching reading skills in the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo.

C. The Subject and Setting

This research would apply in MAN Palopo by focusing on teacher strategy teaching reading skills. This research subject is the teachers who teach English at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo; the second object is to determine the extent to which the student's ability on reading skills at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo; this research subject are students in the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo, The research data would take place in second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo.

D. Techniques and Instruments in Collecting Data

The study applied the following methods in collecting data:

1. Observation

During the teaching and learning process in the classroom, researchers observed teaching and learning activities. Researchers observed several aspects of the teaching and learning process. These aspects include how teachers teach reading skills and how the ability on reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo during the learning process. This observation is to obtain information about teaching and learning activities in the classroom. It is carried out to collect data about the teaching strategies for students reading skills and determine the extent to which students have the ability on reading skills at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo. The results identify the surveillance step problems that determine the planning steps and implementation of the learning process actions. The results of the observation were in the form of field notes.

2. Interviews

The object of this research is the teachers teaching strategy in reading skills and determining the extent to which students have reading skills. The aim is to find accurate information for teaching strategies applied during the teaching and learning process. In contrast, the research subject is the English teacher at the second grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo. The research instrument is an interview guide; a teacher would answer some specific questions that the researcher would ask. The English teachers would be interviewed after the teaching and learning process by a researcher directly. The contents of the interview guide include lesson planning, learning implementation, and assessment implementation. The other research instrument intended for students is a question sheet containing questions about scanning skills and skimming skills, which would be given to second-grade students major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo to answer each student.

3. Documentation study

Documentation study is a data collection technique in the form of accurate written data. It can be accounted for by teachers as a lesson plan, with a lesson plan as a tool for guiding teachers' teaching process in applying reading skills learning strategies.

E. The procedure of Collecting Data

The researcher would use several techniques and instruments to collect data, such as observation, interviews, and documentation studies. The form of data in this study is qualitative, qualitative data obtained from observations, interviews, and documentation studies. The researcher carried out three steps in analyzing qualitative data: data reduction, data display, and concluding. First, the researcher selects, observes, abstracts, and transforms the data into field notes and interview transcripts. The researcher sorts, sharpen, focuses, and organizes the data to get a conclusion after the researcher arranges the data.

CHAPTER IV

FINDING AND DISCUSSION

This chapter presents the findings and discussion of the research. The research findings covered the analysis of teacher's strategies in teaching reading skills and the result of an interview about the strategy in teaching the reading skills process, and test results of students' ability to learn reading skills.

A. Research Finding

a. Teacher's strategy

The interview with one of the key informants was conducted at MAN Palopo. The researcher interview teachers who teach English from the second grade of science majoring at MAN Palopo. Interviews were conducted on Friday, March 18, 2022, and Monday, March 21, 2022. Researcher collected data using observation, interviews, and documentation studies to obtain data on the implementation of English teacher strategies in learning reading skills consisting of scanning skills and skimming skills. The results The researcher's research found the strategies applied by the teacher in teaching the scanning skills and skimming skills method in narrative text learning, namely the strategy there were three strategies including questioning, summarizing, and visualizing.

1. The English teacher strategy implementation of the questioning strategy

Ms. Rahmawati, The teacher implementation of the questioning strategy is applied by the teacher as a form of strategy for applying the scanning skills and skimming skills method in this way is applied by preparing questions for students according to the reading skills to be taught, for example, for scanning skills questions, the teacher prepares questions starting with question words. who, when, how, where, what time to find explicit information in a reading text, whereas if the teacher wants to practice skimming skills, then usually use questions such as "What is the main idea of this paragraph?" or "What does the first paragraph tell us about?"

2. The English teacher strategy implementation of the summarizing strategy

Ms. Rahmawati, The teacher implementation of summarizing strategy is applied by the teacher in the strategy of applying the scanning skills and skimming skills method in this way, at the end of the lesson, the teacher and students work together in making a resume related to learning reading skills, by the teacher asking questions important related to the material being studied to make students active during the learning process, and use relevant vocabulary. The teacher tests for assessment at the end of the learning activity by asking questions such as "What is the main idea of this paragraph?" or "what does text inform us?"

3. The English teacher strategy implementation of the visualizing strategy

Ms. Rahmawati, The teacher implementation of visualizing strategy is applied by the teacher in the strategy of applying the scanning skills and skimming skills method in this way. In reading and determining keywords with table illustrations or pictures related to information, while finding sentences using the skimming skills method, this strategy is done by reading titles, subtitles to find out what is discussed in a text, reading the beginning and end of sentences in each paragraph, and pay attention to the illustrations for more information.

b. Students ability on reading skills

To obtain results of the distributed test sheets carried out students' ability to understand the scanning skills and skimming skills method about scanning skills and scanning skills on Monday, March 21, 2022, as for the results students good excellent in understanding the method of scanning skills and skimming skills in learning reading skills.

1. Students' ability on reading skills

After conducting interviews with the teacher who teach English, the researcher conducted tests for students by giving a test sheet to each student at the second-grade major IPA 2 of MAN Palopo with a total of twenty-five method skills and skimming skills. According to the researcher, some students are quite good at understanding in answering the questions given because they can answer some questions correctly. Based on the findings of giving a test sheet conducted by researchers on the students of about reading skills, specifically, the extent of their understanding of the students' understanding of methods of scanning skills and skimming skills in learning, the average student can answer questions correctly and appropriately, students can identify between keywords and main ideas in a reading, The researcher may conclude students are good excellent in understanding the method of scanning skills and skimming skills in learning reading skills.

2. Student test sheet table

No.	Description	Score	Total students
1.	Good excellent	80-100	9
2.	Excellent	60-79	9
3.	Currently	50-59	6
4.	Low	<49	1

From the data table above, it can be seen that the tests that have been given to 25 students showed that students are good at understanding the text of the question and are able to answer related questions correctly and can apply scanning skills and skimming skills methods in answering these questions. The average value obtained by students is 80-100 of the 25 students as many as 9 students get a score of 80-100, as many as 9 students get a score of 60-79, as many as 6 students obtained a score of 50-59, and as many as 1 students get a score <49.

B. Discussion

Discussion Strategy is an overall approach that relates to implementing ideas, planning, and executing an activity within a certain period. The researcher described the strategies used by English teachers teaching reading skills at MAN Palopo as recorded in observation and interview, and documentation studies. The teachers used various strategies to teach reading skills based on the observation and interview. The teacher's very creative in handling their classes, and they made the students actively involved in the teaching-learning of English reading skills.

English teachers managed the teaching-learning processes very well. Teachers could handle the students who had problems with reading skills and use various strategies in the teaching-learning process. Teachers use strategies to teach, enrich and give experiences to their students related to the materials used. Sometimes teachers also mixed the strategies. This made the students interested in learning, especially in reading skills. So the students did not feel bored in the teaching-learning processes. These various strategies created an attractive atmosphere for the teaching-learning process.

Improved speed reading skills in learning activities teaching on the subject of speed reading with skimming and scanning techniques can provide new experiences for students in learning Indonesian. The process of learning to read quickly can eliminate the boredom of reading to students because by using skimming and scanning techniques students can obtain the necessary knowledge and information quickly and accurately, so that it does not cause boredom when studying, then students can make good use of his time to read because with a lot reading, then a lot of knowledge and information is obtained by quickly, it can increase students' desire to read.³³

Meanwhile, used media is also essential for English teachers to help their students understand. There are many kinds of media that teachers can use in the teaching-learning process, especially for teaching reading skills to senior high school students. The teachers must be selective in choosing the media to use.³⁴

³³ Hilda Komalasari, "Peningkatan Keterampilan Membaca Cepat Melalui Teknik Skimming Pada Mata Pelajaran Bahasa Indonesia Siswa Kelas V Sd Al-Zahra Indonesia Pamulang Pada Tahun Pelajaran 2013/2014" Undergraduate thesis Universitas Islam Negeri Syarif Hidayatullah Jakarta, 2014, p.56.

³⁴ Surya Nengsih, "An Analysis Of Teachers' Strategies In Teaching Reading Comprehension At Smkn 1 Palopo.", Undergraduate thesis IAIN Palopo, 2019.p.62.

From the observations, the researcher found that teacher's helped the students who could not understand the materials by giving them an explanation or directing them on how to use a dictionary. There were some potential weaknesses in how the English teacher taught reading skills to their students. First, the teachers did not only use English as the medium for instruction in the reading skills classroom. They sometimes used Indonesian to help the students understand the material. Second, the teachers spent much time in managed the classroom using cooperative learning and discussions. This influenced the purpose of the study; students studied less seriously, and during the question and answer session, some students were less responsive when asked about learning reading skills.

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

The teacher's strategies in teaching reading skills in MAN Palopo were three: Questioning (1)The teacher implementation of the questioning strategy is applied in this way is applied by preparing questions starting with question words who, when, how, where, what time. (2)The teacher implementation of summarizing strategy is applied in this way the teacher and students work together in making a resume related to learning reading skills, by the teacher asking questions important related to the material being studied so as to make students active during the learning process, and use relevant vocabulary (3)The teacher implementation of visualizing strategy is applied in this way determining keywords with table illustrations or pictures and reading the beginning and end of sentences in each paragraph and pay attention to the illustrations. (4) Student is able to answer questions correctly and appropriately, students are able to identify between keywords and main ideas in reading, students are good excellent in understanding the method of scanning skills and skimming skills in learning reading skills. Based on this research, those strategies effectively teach reading skills because they can help the student comprehend the text. In short, those strategies made an excellent contribution to teachers. Students would be more accessible in understanding reading skills, using this strategy, the teacher more easily gives the material to the students. Those strategies could help the teacher because the students are more active. And the students could exchange their opinion with their friends; and can improve students abilities in the reading skills learning process.

B. Suggestion

Based on the conclusion above, the researcher would offer some suggestions it is hopefully can be helpful for:

1. For the Teacher

This research can improve the quality of English teachers in English teaching methods. Should apply teacher's strategies because this is the teacher's way to determine learning goals during the teaching-learning process.

2. For the student

With the strategies used by the teachers, the teacher's hoped the students more understand about reading skills, especially reading skills using scanning skills and skimming skills in learning.

3. The next researcher

The next researcher can examine the teaching strategies used by an English teacher, which are effective in helping students understand reading skills and make it easier for teachers to convey knowledge to students. So that these results will be more profitable and can be applied to a large area.
